

U.S.-Mexican Relations: From Globalization to Interdependence

Presented by
Dr. Rafael Velazquez
Date : February 4, 2011
Time: 12PM
Location: ZEB 150

Dr. Rafael Velazquez obtained his Ph.D. in International Studies at the School of International Studies of the University of Miami. Currently, Rafael Velázquez is the Director of the Undergraduate Program in Political Sciences and International Relations at the Centro de Investigación y Docencia Económicas (CIDE).

He has held similar academic appointments in the National University of Mexico (UNAM), Tec de Monterrey (ITESM), University of Quintana Roo and Universidad del Mar in Huatulco, Oaxaca. He has been visiting professor at the Teikyo University in Holland. He is a member of the Directive Board of the Asociación Mexicana de Estudios Internacionales (AMEI). He is the author of the book: Factores, Bases y Fundamentos de la Política Exterior de México.

Co-Sponsored by: FIU Latin American and Caribbean Center

OPE-IFLE

Funded by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Postsecondary Education
International and Foreign Language Education

Arts & Sciences
FLORIDA INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY