

Foreign Language and Area Studies (FLAS) Fellowship

2024-2025 Academic Year Fellowships
Application Submission Deadline:
January 1, 2024

The Kimberly Green Latin American and Caribbean Center (LACC) at Florida International University is privileged to announce a conditional call for applications for the 2024-2025 Academic Year Foreign Language and Area Studies (FLAS) Fellowship.

Funded by the U.S. Department of Education and administered by the Kimberly Green Latin American and Caribbean Center (LACC) according to federal regulations, the FLAS fellowship supports language training in Less-Commonly-Taught Languages (LCTLs), including Portuguese, Haitian Creole, and Quechua. The fellowship assists in the advancement of knowledge, resources, and trained personnel for foreign language and area/international studies and supports the development of a qualified pool of international experts with global competence designed to meet U.S. national needs.

The Academic Year FLAS fellowship covers tuition and fees (up to 12 credits for graduate students; up to 18 credits for undergraduate students) for Fall and Spring semesters. Additionally, fellowship recipients are awarded a stipend (approximately $20,000 for graduate students; $5,000 for undergraduate students).

Full-time, degree-seeking FIU graduate and undergraduate students in any discipline may apply. Academic Year FLAS Fellowship recipients are required to enroll in at least one Latin American and Caribbean-related area studies course and one Portuguese, Haitian Creole, or Quechua course each semester at FIU for the duration of the fellowship period.

Undergraduate student applicants must be prepared to study one of the approved languages at the intermediate or advanced level. Undergraduate students at the beginning level of a language are not eligible. Graduate students may study one of the approved languages (Portuguese, Haitian Creole, or Quechua) at the beginning, intermediate, or advanced levels. However, graduate students applying to study a FLAS language at the beginning level must demonstrate they speak another language from the region, other than English, at the advanced level. Preference will be given to meritorious students at the intermediate or advanced level, as well as those in the professional schools (Business, Law, Medicine, Education, Journalism, Social Work, Engineering, Criminal Justice, Tourism and Hospitality, etc.), and those planning a career in U.S. government service are strongly encouraged to apply.

For more information on the FLAS Fellowship application process, please contact LACC Academic Programs Coordinator, Carlos Tinoco (ctinoco@fiu.edu or 305-348-0967).
