

Tinker

Graduate Student Field Research Travel Grants

2021 Call for Applications

The Kimberly Green Latin American and Caribbean Center (LACC) is pleased to announce the call for the 2021-2022 Tinker Foundation Field Research Collaborative grant applications.

LACC's Tinker grant program funds graduate student travel to any Spanish or Portuguese-speaking country in Latin America and the Caribbean to conduct pre-dissertation research directly related to the region.

Travel will be subject to requirements and restrictions established by FIU in relation to the Covid-19 pandemic.

Requirements:

- Be a graduate student in any FIU academic program.
- Be in the early stages of the graduate degree program.

The funding cycle for 2021-2022 will cover research travel and field-related expenses for graduate students. Travel expenses include air ticket, lodging, and transportation up to $2,500 per student.

More information:

<https://lacc.fiu.edu/research/> and click on the Tinker Field Research Collaborative link.

Deadline for submitting applications:
Friday, October 15th, 2021
at 5pm (EST)